

Blatt 22

This page is designed for handwriting practice of the letter 'S'. It features a central illustration of a turtle. To the left of the turtle, there are five rows of 'S' shapes, each with a small arrow indicating the starting point and direction of the stroke. To the right of the turtle, there are three columns of 'S' shapes. The first column has five 'S' shapes with arrows, the second column has five 'S' shapes without arrows, and the third column has five 'S' shapes with arrows. At the bottom left, there is an illustration of a hand holding a pencil, demonstrating the correct grip and starting point for writing the letter.

Blatt 21

This page is designed for tracing practice of the letter 'S'. It features a central illustration of a shark. To the right of the shark, there are three large 'S' shapes for tracing. Each 'S' shape has arrows indicating the direction of the stroke. The first 'S' is the largest, the second is medium-sized, and the third is the smallest. The shark illustration is positioned to the left of the first 'S' shape.